DETAILED ACTION

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after allowance or after an Office action under Ex Parte Quayle, 25 USPQ 74, 453 O.G. 213 (Comm'r Pat. 1935). Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, prosecution in this application has been reopened pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 01/31/2008 has been entered.

The indicated allowability of claims 1-10 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Matthias et al (US 6,601,662). Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, and 5-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Matthias et al (US 6,601,662).

Matthias et al discloses a polycrystalline diamond cutter having abrasive elements shown in Figs 1A, 1B which comprises a layer of polycrystalline diamond 30 bounded to a substrate 34 along an interface the layer having a working surface 70 opposite to the interface and any outer peripheral surface extending between the working surface and the interface (see Figs 19B, 20B for example). The annular region adjacent the peripheral surface is anticipated by region 30 or 70, which is extended away from the working surface which is lean or free of catalyzing material.

- The region rich in catalyzing material is anticipated by region near reference numeral 30 shown in fig. 20B.
- The sintering agent is anticipated by the powdery carbonate of Mg, Ca, Sr sintering agents of '622 reference.
- The region rich in catalyzing material comprises more than one region shown in figs. 20A-22A, where more than one rich areas are shown.
- The substrate is cemented tungsten carbide in '622 reference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matthias et al (US 6,601,662).

The specific depth ranges of the lean region or annular region extending from working surface is considered an obvious design option judging the fact that the annular region shown in Figs. 19B-22B all show the lean regions or the annular regions having variable depths ranging from minimal to the maximum depth of the abrasive layers.
